

NetApp System Manager - beta feedback

balazs.lovas 3 posts since

Oct 6, 2008

Hi Guys,

I just got hold of NSM and it looks really pretty, so much better than the web interface. I wonder if you still accept feature requests for the product.

- I'd love to get a centralized view of my aggregates/volumes/luns/init groups. It's a bit tiresome to switch views every time I need to check something out. I'm thinking of a folder tree-like view of every element of the device.
- The current LUN view has a major downside: I cannot immediately see which lun is assigned to which initiator. The web interface had this info on one page, now I have to click thru all LUNS to get this info, which is kinda painful 😊.
- The LUN level snapshot management is a bit misleading... it shows the volume snapshots and not the LUN snaps. Whereas the LUN level snapshot functionality is not even wired into the interface (I wonder if this is intentional?)
- renaming an initiator group gave me an error stating that this operation has to be done with the -f switch. Yet, the rename was successful.

NetApp System Manager - beta feedback

Regards,

Bali